Leader

This month we've got lots of new things in store for you. For starters, as you most likely have realised from the cover, the dossier looks at Waterloo. This time, though, we didn't want to focus on the historical aspect of the battle since most of you are already well versed in the event. Instead, we thought it would be interesting to present a "What if...?" scenario brought to you by Barry Hilton and his friends, the League of Gentlemen Wargamers. A few months ago, they thought about the possibility of gaming a large-scale version of the battle with 25 and 28mm figures to find out what would've happened if certain movements or manoeuvres hadn't been carried out. So, they went about organising the armies, terrain modules, maps, commands and rented a hotel suite for an entire weekend to wage war. Check out the results of their endeavour on the inside. This is accompanied by more localised scenarios of Waterloo so those of you who don't have resources like Barry and friends can still feel like you're Napoleon or Wellington. The dossier also includes recommended reading and a guide on some of the rules that are available on the market. We are really excited by this small innovation and hope you enjoy it.

Another good piece of news is that we continue growing. After consolidating our entrance into the Australian market (the last country we've closed a distribution deal with), we will now publish the magazine on a monthly basis starting next month! It's going to take a lot of effort from us all, but we're confident that it will be worth it. All current subscribers will be receiving a special offer which they will be informed about shortly.

We are also planning on launching our website just as we mentioned in the January issue. Work on the web page is being completed now and we hope to be able to have it up and running by next issue. Keep your fingers crossed.

We hope this month's magazine offers you enough interesting articles and information to tide you over till Salute - stay tuned for a detailed review of this year's show in next month's issue.

Thank you very much for your continued support, especially those whose collaboration and effort has helped to make Wargames: Soldiers & Strategy what it is - a magazine for discerning wargamers. As Churchill once said, "Never was so much owed by so many to so few".
